Self-confident, critical, resolute, reluctant leader, brooding.

OBITUARY

Tattoo was an orphan, both biologically and culturally; a self-trained wanderer who developed a high degree of expertise in a variety of combat disciplines before puberty. Recruited by the Taikou Mercenaries, Tattoo rose to command level, but was then drummed out due to severe disagreements with leadership, and was then hunted for some time. While on the run from the Taikou, Tattoo made a living as a mercenary and bodyguard, working with various crews. Tattoo gained a reputation as a soldier and frank-speaking diplomat acquainted with all layers of society, and having a vast knowledge of trade, finance, government, and society across much of the galaxy.
